NOTE All info from Kriss Godfrey:

Thomas was baptised on February 19, 1648, at Carleton, Gedling Parish, Nottinghamshire, England. In 1669, at the age of 21, Thomas emigrated to America. His reason for leaving England was probably economic, since he was the youngest of his father's five sons, and stood to inherit very little of his father's estate. The custom then was to leave the bulk of the estate to the eldest son. Thomas was transported to America by Thomas Trueman, who had been in the Colony for three years.

The Trueman family was from the same area of Nottinghamshire as the Greenfields. Thomas' future wife, Martha Trueman, was the niece of this Thomas Trueman. Thomas Greenfield and Thomas Trueman both settled in Calvert County, Maryland, near the Patuxent River. Over the years, Thomas Greenfield became very wealthy and influential in southern Maryland. He bought and sold many tracts of land. At his death, it is known that he owned over 2,000 acres in Prince George County, MD. Thomas Greenfield was a Burgess for Calvert county to the Assembly in Annapolis, MD, from 1672 to 1696. He was also a Justice of Calvert County from 1689-1694, and a vestryman at St. Paul's Parish in 1691. He was appointed High Sheriff of Prince George County and served from 1696-1699. Thomas was also a planter, growing mainly tobacco on his lands. He leased out much of his lands to sharecroppers, and some of his plantations were worked by his slaves. At the time of his death, Thomas owned 27 slaves. Thomas died in 1715 in Prince George County, MD, and was buried at "Magoonskin", a family cemetery in Prince George Co. His wife, Martha Trueman Greenfield, lived until 1739, and was buried beside her husband.
